PACIFIC ELECTRIC RAILROAD CLOSES THOROUGHFARES

Men at Work Along Brand Boulevard Closing Up Maple, Chestnut, Lomita, and Seventh Street—Crossings Curbed—Result of City's Attempt to Get Grade Lowered

For some months past the city trustees have been wrestling with the problem of getting the Pacific Electric company to lower its rails on Brand boulevard so as to conform with the established grade. What has actually been done in this matter is made clear in the following abstract of all proceedings, with extracts from letters interchanged, etc. Notwithstanding the independent tone of Mr. McMillan's last letters to the trustees, no one anticipated the unpleasant turn affairs took when on Wednesday morning a large force of men employed by the railroad people began to close up the crossings over the railroad tracks at Maple, Chestnut, Lomita and Seventh streets by closing the gaps in the concrete curbs which had been left for crossing purposes when the boulevard was improved. Chairman Watson and Street Superintendent Sinclair were soon on the grounds. Mr. Watson's first thought was that an injunction should be served to stop proceedings until the matter could be settled by the courts, but the city attorney, Mr. Baker, advised against this and the work went on. As will be seen in the accompanying extracts, the claim of the railroad company is that as these streets had not been dedicated as public thoroughfares before the railroad obtained possession of the private right of way, that the city has no claim upon these intersections. They do not seem to have any designs upon Sixth street or the crossings north of that. The company's position does not appear impregnable, however. As far as Lomita avenue is concerned, it is surceptible of proof that it has been a public thoroughfare for twenty-five years, for although probably intended as a private road through the old Crow ranch, it has not within the memory of the oldest inhabitant been closed to the public. Their position in regard to Seventh street is even weaker for on the original map of Glendale published in 1887 appears "Crow avenue" running from Glendale avenue to Central, being identical with what is now known as "Seventh street." Another weak position upon the part of the railroad people is the fact that the curb along their tracks is placed just outside of their right of way upon the city's property, and they are clearly trespassing and acting in violation of a city ordinance. The cause of the trouble is fully set forth below as is also the action taken by the city trustees at their meeting Wednesday night meeting.

Being requested by Trustee Cole to take the street grade matter up with the engineer of the Pacific Electric, in the hope of making an amicable adjustment of it, City Engineer Lynch, under date of May 5th, 1909, wrote to Mr. Littell, "Engineer Maintenance of Way," as follows:

"Some few months ago, I called upon you in your office regarding the lowering of the P. E. tracks through the city of Glendale. You promised to look into the matter as soon as possible. May I ask if you have arrived at any conclusion regarding the matter, etc."

Under date of May 1st, Mr. Littell replied as follows:

"Our tracks as they exist today do not seem to be out of line or off-grade and I can see no valid reason why you should ask to have any change made."

On June 2d, 1909, the city trustees received a petition signed by 78 property owners along and in the neighborhood of Brand boulevard, requesting them to "take the necessary action to have the Pacific Electric railway tracks on said Brand boulevard where they cross intersecting streets at all points from the northerly line of First street to the south city lines, lowered to the present official grade as established by the city of Glendale."

This led to the board giving instructions to the city engineer to make a report as to status of right of way in reference to established grades and street dedications. This report was made under date of June 16th, 1909. This report comprised copies of deeds by L. C. Brand and the Huntington Land Improvement Co. to the Los Angeles Interurban Railway Co. of rights of way; order of vacation granted by the board of supervisors; deed by Oliver O. Bond (Goodell's predecessor) to L. C. Brand and a map showing in detail the grades at points on railroad line intersecting streets.

Report was received and referred to a committee of two to act in conjunction with the president and city attorney and interview the railroad officials. On January 5, 1910, the city engineer was instructed to recommend grades where streets cross Brand boulevard between First and Ninth streets where same not already established. On January 26th the matter was by the trustees referred to a committee of the whole. At the meeting of February 2d the committee of the whole reported that in the matter of determining grades for streets crossing Brand boulevard, they recommended that the city engineer be requested to make a written report showing the elevations on Brand boulevard at the intersections of cross streets, and it was so ordered. At meeting of Feb. 9th the clerk reported having received a letter from General Manager McMillan in answer to a request to name a date for conference, in which he said that the trustees could have a conference at any time. This was referred to the public works committee and city engineer to arrange for a conference. At the meeting of Feb. 23d the city attorney presented an exhaustive written opinion covering the matter, quoting authorities and statutes and citing precedents, concluding as follows: "In view of the foregoing, I am of opinion that if a reasonable public necessity can be shown for requiring the electric railway company to lower its tracks, the city of Glendale has the power to require such change to be made upon its taking the proper proceedings for that purpose." The communication was filed. At trustees' meeting of March 23d Mr. Caruthers appeared before the board and made a plea for a crossing over the railroad tracks at Chestnut street. The clerk was thereupon instructed to communicate with the railway officials in regard to the same. The city clerk under date of March 28th wrote Mr. McMillan as follows: "Residents of Glendale in the vicinity of Chestnut street and Brand boulevard have requested the board of trustees of the city of Glendale to communicate with you in regard to establishing a public crossing over the tracks of the P. E. railway at Chestnut street and Brand boulevard. The city will do the necessary work to make this crossing safe for public travel, and inasmuch as there is no other crossing below Lomita avenue within the city limits, it would seem that the request of the residents in this vicinity is very reasonable." Under date of March 29th Mr. McMillan replied at length, saying among other things: "I cannot offer any encouragemetn that the crossing over this companys' right of way will be given. We want first to see what the outcome is going to be of the present demand of the city of Glendale that the P. E. railway change its entire grade and lower its tracks entirely through the corporate limits of Glendale. Furthermore there is no more reason why the city of Glendale should take the railway company's private right of way for street purposes without making adequate compensation therefor, than there is that it should take the private property of any one else for the same purpose. When it has been noted the city has evidently been putting some such crossings over the private right of way without any authority therefor, the company proposes to protect its interests in the direction indicated and see that such taking forcible possession of its private right of way is done in a regular and legal way, and that it be compensated therefor the same as any other property owner would be."

On April 4th the city clerk replied to Mr. McMillan requesting specific information as to when and where such alleged acts were done, concluding as follows: "The predecessor of the Pacific Electric company had the line in operation and there were certain crossings for public convenience at the time the city of Glendale was incorporated. There are no records of any public work whatever on file in this office showing any work authorized or done by the city, on crossings over the Pacific Electric right of way on Brand boulevard; furthermore our street superintendent and city engineer state that no such work has been done either diurnally or nocturnally." On April 4th Mr. McMillan replied as follows: "Are we to understand that the city of Glendale takes the position that Maple avenue and both Sixth and Fifth streets and all the streets north of Fourth street, particularly Second and Third streets were roadways or public highways that existed before, or at the time, the railway tracks were constructed upon the right of way through what is now within the city limits of Glendale?"

On April 7th Mr. Lynch, city engineer, made a written report to the trustees detailing his interview with Pacific Electric Engineers Bell and Littell. The former had gone over the ground with Mr. Lynch and admitted that the tracks should be lowered, saying he would take the matter up at once. This was some time last fall, since which time Mr. Bell has not been heard from. Mr. Littell succeeded Mr. Bell a month or so ago and upon being interviewed made the same promise. Mr. Littell's secretary had in his chief's absence told Mr. Lynch that he thought that as the tracks were on the company's right of way, it was absolved from the necessity of lowering them.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

Edwards & Wiley company has purchased from F. D. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Jessie L. Nuss, W. J. McCarroll and William H. Nuss the old Hollingsworth ranch in the western portion of Eagle Rock. The property consists of fifty acres of choice foothill land, facing on the Eagle Rock-Glendale electric line, and also on the boulevard. It adjoins the Occidental Heights tract on the west. The new owners will at once subdivide the property and install a high class of improvements. The aggregate consideration for the fifty acres acquired was $55,000, or $1100 per acre.—Times.

H. M. Herron, on Louise street near Casa Verdugo, is putting up a $1800 residence. Oliver O. Clark, Woollacott and Central is building a $2000 residence. The Peerless Building Co. has begun work on a house for L. A. Phillips, Milford and Central, to cost about $2500.

Alice M. and Elias Ayers have sold to Chas. W. McCormick, five lots on Ninth street, corner of Adams, comprising about four acres of land. It is understood that the property will be improved by the purchaser.

YOUNG LADIES PURCHASE GLENDALE HOME.

Miss Charlotte Simpson and Miss Carrie Erickson, who have for the past several years been in China as nurses, having been sent there by the Seventh Day Adventist church of this country, have purchased a home in Glendale and will soon move to this place to reside. The home which they bought is located on Fifth street between Adams street and the Verdugo road. It consists of a one-half acre lot and a modern five-room colonial house.

While in China the young ladies were stationed in the province of Honan and during their stay became able to speak the language as proficiently as the natives themselves.

Within a week's time Miss Erickson expects the arrival of her mother, Mrs. P. C. Erickson and sister, Mrs. C. M. Erickson, both of Iowa, and it is the intention of the four ladies to occupy the pretty Glendale home together.

SPORTING NEWS.

Mr. Velentine has put the grounds in excellent shape by engaging the services of Mr. Burk, who is working with the Domestic Gas Co., and his big road king grader made short work of the weeds on the outfield and leveled up the bumps on the infield.

Next Saturday afternoon the home boys will cross bats with the strong Echo Park team on the home grounds. This Echo Park team has been defeated only two times during the past eight months, and the game at this place Saturday will doubtless be the finest for this season. A large crowd is looked for. The lineup:

Glendale.		Echo Park.
Benson	Pitcher	Laswell
Buttrick	Catcher	Finley
Davenport	First	Byram
M. Sprinkle	Second	McLeer
Bourne	Third	Haight
Fakler	Short	Lewis
Hilliard	Right	McDonald
Kern	Center	Slaughter
Valentine	Sub.

For the second time this season the Glendale boys defeated the Occidental College varsity team, this time doing the trick on the home grounds last Wednesday afternoon by the score of 4 to 1. The game was snappy throughout and the feature was the triple play made by the Glendale boys, although the play was not allowed on account of a little dirty play on the part of the visitors.

MOVEMENT OF CITRUS FRUITS.

At the Peycke Packing house, work has just been begun on the orange crop of Mrs. Wing on Sixth street, which will probably amount to something like eight carloads of navels and about ten of Valencias. This concern has shipped about twenty-five carloads of oranges and lemons so far this season, practically all of which were the product of the orchards in this vicinity, many of the lemons being from the orchard of Mr. J. P. Lukens on Verdugo road.

Sparr's Packing house has sent out fifty-three cars of oranges and lemons for the season to date and has several carloads of lemons on hand. They will probably handle about 125 carloads during the season. About one-half of the lemons packed here come from the Sparr orchards at La Crescenta, the balance of the fruit comes from North Glendale and other local orchards.

The Ross packing house has sent out about ten cars of oranges and lemons so far. The Citrus Union (Thom orchards) have not yet begun to ship. Fruit in this section is practically unhurt by frost, only a small portion of the trees in the lower part of the valley being affected at all. The market is not yet satisfactory to growers, as it was demoralized by the rush of frozen fruit from affected districts immediately after the cold snap of January and consumers are still somewhat afraid of the fruit in consequence. Conditions will, no doubt, improve soon, however, as no damaged fruit is now being shipped.

THE CITY ELECTION A TAME AFFAIR.

A BIG CELEBRATION

May 14th is the Date—Everybody Get Ready

The Board of Trade held a special meeting last week and another last Tuesday evening at the city hall to discuss and decide upon the question of holding a celebration over the completion of Glendale's electric lighting system. It was definitely decided to hold the celebration on Saturday, May 14th, from noon to midnight and to have it on such a scale as will cause the rest of the world to sit up and take notice. At last Tuesday evening's meeting there was a good attendance and the proper amount of enthusiasm was manifested. Mr. Coker presided and the various committees made reports. The program has not been completed, but it is intended to give a barbecue and feed the visiting thousands. A captive balloon is suggested as one of the attractions, there will be games and other sports, good speakers will be provided and probably two large bands whose services will cost practically nothing, will enliven the occasion with music. All the automobiles that can be secured will be ready to give visitors free rides about the valley. It is conceded that now that the celebration has been definitely decided upon, Glendale must exert itself to the utmost to make it a day to be remembered by not our own people only but by the many strangers that will visit our city. The next meeting of the board will be held at the city hall next Tuesday evening and all citizens who can possibly do so are requested to be present.

The following committees have been appointed: Finance, W. G. Watson, C. O. Pulliam; barbecue, C. E. Stanley, E. U. Emery, H. M. Miller, E. F. Tuttle, Alex Mitchell, Mr. Frazer; advertising, F. E. Church, H. G. Dominy, J. C. Sherer.

Entertainment—F. J. Muehlman, W. J. Usselton.

Grounds and Building—W. A. Anderson, E. G. Pack, C. H. Boyd, H. M. Millen.

Music—F. E. Muehlman, J. W. Usselton.

Special Features—W. B. Kirk, J. W. Usselton, C. O. Pulliam.

THE KIRMISS.

Any doubts about Glendale's growing importance and whether it is worth while to give first-class entertainments here, the might have been dissipated by attendance at Filger's Opera house last Friday and Saturday evenings. On both nights this hall, which a year ago was thought to be rather in advance of our necessities, was literally crowded, a large number of spectators being lined up against the walls on account of their inability to secure seats. The "Kirmess and Carnival of Nations" was an immense success from every point of view and the Women's Guild of St. Marks church has a handsome addition to its bank account to be applied to the good work being done by the organization. The dances were gracefully executed and the music was all that could be desired. All of them were well received, but probably it was the "Pickaninnys" that most surely brought down the house. The Scotch dancers were also great favorites, and the shrill notes of the bag pipe inspired the participants to great terpsichorial feats. The May pole dance was a very pretty affair, the youngsters performing their parts in a delightful manner. The English, the Irish, the Russian and the Dutch, appropriately garbed in the costume of the Homeland, forgot for the time all racial distinctions and animosities and tripped through the mazes of their particular measures to the time of the familiar airs of their native lands. The Indian dance by painted braves and bedizened squaws to the accompaniment of a liberality of lusty war whoops also brought down the house. The Spanish dance by Miss Yorba and Master Martinez was an exhibition of graceful posturing. The Fisher's horn pipe by Gus Pulliam was highly appreciated as evidenced by encores. The tenor solos by Spencer Robinson on Saturday evening were one of the most enjoyable features of the liberal program.

The little comedy, "Per Telephone," was presented in a manner altogether pleasing.

Bouquets in great profusion were distributed with a fine impartiality to the performers. Taking into account the limitations of the stage, the whole spectacle was a great success. There was a voting contest at a penny a vote, which was won by the Scotchmen. The booths were liberally patronized. Mrs. Scott W. Johnson and the ladies assisting her deserve great credit for making the affair a success. The ladies wish to thank Marshal H. M. Miller for responding so willingly to demands made upon him in the care taken to prevent accidents from fire or otherwise.

On Saturday, April 16th, the Glendale Market will sell for cash:

Pot roasts, per lb	9c and 10c
Chuck steak, per lb	10c
Boiling beef, per lb	7c and 8c

And everything else in proportion.

GLENDALE, CAL., APRIL 15, 1910

It rained on election day. Was it a Democratic victory?

The enthusiasm among lately annexed suburbanites over the proposed Los Angeles bond issue, is not loud nor prolonged.

400,000 workmen in the United States have had their wages increased since the first of the year and that is only the beginning.

Note that on May 14th Glendale celebrates. Get out your bunting—clean up your sidewalks, put on the paint and get ready to enthuse-

Uncle Sam commences today to take an account of stock. The census man is abroad. Ladies, get down the family Bible, turn to the record and tell the truth.

Wonder when Ballinger is going to start that libel suit against Colliers! Is he waiting to find out through the report of that investigating committee whether he is guilty or not?

Mr. Edgar Johnson, proprietor of the Orange County Tribune, has purchased the Riverside Enterprise, a prosperous daily. Mr. Johnson has made a success of the newspaper business wherever he has been and will no doubt do the same with his new acquisition. He is secretary of the Southern California Press association and a rustler. We wish him success.

If only we are vouchsafed clear skies for a short time we may get a glimpse of the celebrated celestial visitor, Halley's comet, in the early morning before sunrise. It is now on its way to perihelion, and will pass between the earth and the sun on the 18th of May; shortly after which it will be a most interesting object in our evening skies for many weeks. But it will be worth while to get up a little earlier than usual to get a peep at it now.

The action of the Pacific Electric company in closing up streets on Brand boulevard is in keeping with the idea prevalent in some minds that "The King can do no wrong." It is also suggestive of recent happenings in Rome in which an infallible Pope was the victim of a mighty poor diplomat. Mr. Huntington who owns the Pacific Electric and to some extent the earth, is absent from Los Angeles, but he will have to bear the brunt of the odium which attaches to a wrong action. There is no doubt some technical right on the part of the railroad, but the undoubted result of action based upon such technical right is to deprive the people of necessary conveniences, without any resulting benefits to the railroad company that the average mortal can discern. Just here and now we wish to protest against an idea which has been expressed more than once by people who should know better, to the effect that "the people of Glendale are antagonistic to the Pacific Electric company." This is the rankest nonsense and should find lodgment in no brain that has reached maturity, it is more than foolish, it is asinine.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS.

In a New York city school the pupils have organized a bank which is proving a great success, not financially, perhaps, for it has not yet been admitted to the clearing house nor has it affiliated with J. P. Morgan's chain of financial institutions, but it is accomplishing all that was expected of it and certainly that should constitute success. It teaches the pupils business methods and encourages and develops the saving habit. The bank is open every school day for one hour, deposits from one cent up are received. On balances in excess of fifty cents the bank pays four per cent interest. After the deposit has reached the sum of fifty cents checks given on it are honored except that as much as fifty cents must always remain to the credit of the account. In some schools the use of the metal savings bank has been encouraged with very good results in inculcating saving habits, but the banking plan has great advantages over that system and is perfectly practicable. Some of the pupils of our schools are slow about learning the value of money and anything that will help them to acquire this very essential knowledge ought to be encouraged.

THE TOWN YOU LIVE IN.

The following quotation is from the Presbyterian calendar:

"The town you live in! Think well of it; speak in its favor; patronize its merchants; encourage its industries; cheer every live enterprise; see all that is beautiful in it; chant praises to the good it possesses; sing of its improvements; love it; stick to it—this town you live in!"

We are glad to note that Henry T. Gage has really packed his grip and left for Portugal—or will leave in a few days, if the weather permits. Some of his injudicious friends seemed rather to insist upon his becoming a candidate for governor, or senator or something, and it pleases us that he did not defer to their wishes. Mr. Gage is personally a most likeable man, but he made such an awful mess of being governor that his injection into any political campaign as a possible candidate, would precipitate a repetition of a campaign of scandal such as would have a tendency to make the average peace-loving citizen take to the woods. He probably made more bad appointments while governor than any other occupant of the same position in California, and that is saying [illegible] made specific charges against him, so serious in their nature that they could not be ignored and the object of the attack entered suit in heavy damages for libel, which never was allowed to come to trial, although no apology or retraction was ever made that the public knows of.

THE CITY ELECTION.

The election for three trustees and other municipal officers came off on Monday with little attendant excitement. The board of trustees as now constituted does not promise any radical changes of policy and there is every reason to believe that it will conduct the affairs of the city along conservative and yet progressive lines as has been the policy heretofore. There are a few things which may well engage the attention of the board, which have not heretofore received attention, and one or two of them may properly be mentioned here. One of these is the care of our parkways. It is not sufficient to depend upon property owners, even if residents, to keep parkways clean, experience has proved that they will not do it. We hope that the board will see the advisability when the time comes around for levying the tax rate for the coming year, of adding a few cents to provide a fund to be applied to this purpose. The work of one good man along the space between sidewalk and curb would be sufficient to add very largely to the attractiveness of our city. He could also act in the capacity of city forester and have oversight of the trees that may be planted along the streets. A public work which should be pushed forward in every practicable way is that of the opening up and improvement of Glendale avenue northward to its junction with Verdugo Road. Although the city has no jurisdiction over the road outside the corporate limits, it is practicable to take up the matter with the county through the board of supervisors or the highway commission. The plans of the latter body comprise a highway from La Canada down through Verdugo canyon to Glendale city limits and possibly they may be induced to follow the track of the Salt Lake road down to Glendale. In any event that portion of Glendale avenue within the city limits north of First street should be improved. Another needed work is the laying out of an official bed for the storm water that comes down from Sycamore canon. It should not be necessary to spend a great deal of money in providing a channel for this vagrant semi-occasional stream, but there should be a route selected for it, as nearly a natural one as possible, from which property owners should not be permitted to divert it. A need which is fortunately not yet pressing, but which should soon be supplied, is that of a city jail. An addition could be made to the city fire house which would answer the purpose for a few years to come, at comparatively little cost. All of these problems will demand the attention of the trustees during the term now beginning and we have no doubt but they will be treated as the subjects merit.

THE UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP.

Of more interest to the people of California than the question of who shall be governor of the state is the selection of our representatives in the two houses of congress. The honor of filling the position of senator from California is greater than that attached to the office of chief executive of the state and is one to which the ablest of our citizens may well aspire. In all the years since California has been a state we have never been represented in the United States senate by a man who stood one inch higher than the average of his associates in that august body and has quite frequently fallen below it. This is due very largely to the fact that the Southern Pacific Railroad company has been allowed to name our senators. That corporation has probably done this in every case since it became a power in the state, with a single exception, that of Hon. Thomas R. Bard, who now lies at death's door in his Ventura county home. At the session of the legislature of 1905, Senator Bard was a candidate for re-election, his principal opponent being Frank P. Flint of Los Angeles, who had secured the endorsement of the Republican convention of his home county. Mr. Flint was a young lawyer of good reputation, an attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad company, who had in no way demonstrated his fitness for the office, and was unknown outside of his home city. Among his principal backers locally were Walter F. Parker, political representative of the Southern Pacific, Oscar Lawler (now assistant to the attorney general at Washington), Leo Youngworth (now U. S. marshal for Southern California), Judge McKinley and a very effective working combination of able politicians. Senator Bard had made an excellent record as a hard working, conscientious and able senator, standing well with his colleagues and generally known as a man of absolute independence of character. He was too independent indeed to be a good politician and having [illegible] a personal political machine, was easily beaten, although he had the support of the Los Angeles Times and was easily the favorite of the people at large. Flint did not have an easy fight, however, as there were other candidates with railroad affiliations and Mr. Herron had some little difficulty in choosing among them. The legislature adjourned as usual one Friday evening and the managers and principals in the contest took a trip "down the bay" to see Mr. Herron, the political manager of the Southern Pacific. They saw him so effectually that when they returned to Sacramento on Monday, the word was immediately passed around that Mr. Flint had been selected, and when the legislature convened, the candidate of Mr. Herron and Mr. Parker was promptly elected. Returning to Los Angeles for congratulations, Mr. Flint in a published interview loyally admitted that Mr. Parker had done more to secure his election than any other man. Mr. Flint's term of office expires with the present congress and he announces positively that he will not be a candidate for re-election. We believe his decision is a wise one. He has made a good "Chamber of Commerce" senator. He has secured appropriations, he has provided as many of his friends as possible with offices; he has aided in keeping up the tariff on the products of his state and he has never voted against Mr. Aldrich, the representative of the special interests!

With Mr. Flint's expressed reason for not again being a candidate, we do not sympathize. It is regrettable that any candidate for public office should be compelled to spend any considerable sum of money to secure his election; but we do not think that any citizen should be so enamored of money-making that he need feel that he "cannot afford" to be a senator of the United States. It is remembered in this connection that Stephen M. White gave the same reason for not again being a candidate for this same position (he had no chance of being elected) and died shortly afterwards, leaving an estate valued at $70,000. To succeed Senator Flint, the only candidate brought forward thus far is John D. Works of Los Angeles, who has the backing of the leaders of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League. Judge Works is somewhat better known than was Mr. Flint when he became a candidate, but politically he is an unknown quantity. Governor Gillette has practically agreed to be a candidate "if wanted," and it is quite possible that the old remnant of the "organization" will want him, as they can probably do no better.

Mr. Gillette is evidently acceptable to the railroad interests, which fact does not commend him to the people at large, as railroad candidates are likely to have a hard time getting votes in the coming campaign.

FIRE ALARM—SLIGHT DAMAGE.

An explosion of a gasoline stove at the residence of Mr. Lawson, corner of Seventh and Central Tuesday forenoon, caused damage to the extent of a hundred dollars or so. The fire was extinguished by a neighbor, Mr. Dodge, who turned on water with a garden hose. The fire department responded as promptly as possible considering the fact that the fire horse was with the marshal at work on Brand boulevard. The incident points to the necessity of a second horse being secured so that the fire house should never be left without a horse to pull the engine.

TRUSTEES' MEETING.

All trustees present except Mr. Grant.

A long list of demands on the treasury was referred, and bills previously referred were approved. A report was received from the manager of the electric lighting department. This report shows a balance on hand March 1st, 1910, of $18,525.31. Miscellaneous receipts during March, $66.90; a total of $18,592,21.

Expenditures during March, $9141.86. Balance on hand April 1st, $9450.35. Accounts payable, $5093.58. Amount on hand above obligations, $4356.77.

Total	$1451.66
Expenditures:

Action taken at last meeting instructing city clerk to send to Pacific Electric R. R. Co. a copy of the ordinance establishing grade on Brand Boulevard, was reconsidered and laid on the table.

A petition was received from residents on Mary street requesting that name of street be changed to Maryland avenue. Referred to committee on public works.

An application was received from E. D. Goode for a franchise on the east side of Glendale avenue, extending southward from the present terminus of the Glendale and Eagle Rock road, for a term of fifty years. The matter was returned to the applicant, with a request that he present a properly prepared franchise to the board, which would after its receipt offer the franchise for sale.

A number of citizens from Lomita Park were present, desiring information as to the status of the trouble on Brand Boulevard with the Pacific Electric Co. Attorney Baker made a statement to the effect that he had advised delay rather than resorting to an injunction, because the city could lose no rights by present inaction. It is simply a question whether the railroad company has allowed crossings at Lomita and Seventh to be used for five years, in which case the city can easily go into court and establish the right to those streets by proscription. If actual user of these streets for five years can be established the city can easily establish its rights. The city engineer was instructed to furnish the city attorney and the board, the necessary data in regard to rights claimed by the city for street purposes on streets crossing Brand Boulevard, particularly in regard to prescriptive rights on Lomita avenue and for condemnation proceedings on the other streets. The street superintendent reported that the work done by the railroad company in putting in these sections of curb, was upon the public street, being outside of their right of way. There was a strong feeling expressed by the trustees that the obstructions should be forcibly removed—but under the advice of the city attorney the street superintendent was directed to serve notice upon the proper railroad official to remove the obstructions from Brand Boulevard at Lomita avenue; also the obstructions on Brand Boulevard at Chestnut street, before 12 o'clock noon of the 14th, or the city will do it at the expense of the company.

The manager of the electric light department reported that the Home Telephone Co. requested privilege of putting a cable on the city's electric light poles, paying for the same. The matter was referred to the manager of the light department and the city attorney, to draw up a satisfactory lease with the telephone company for five years.

There was considerable discussion as to the feasibility of supplying electricity to Eagle Rock, the general opinion being that it could be done, but no action was taken.

The board canvassed the vote cast at the municipal election April 11th, resulting in the announcement of result as published elsewhere.

THE CENSUS.

Today (April 15th) an army of enumerators go forth to count the people of the United States and secure a lot of statistical information for the purpose of the government in tabulating information about the people and the products of farm, manufactory and general business. It is calculated that the information will all be secured in a month, but it will be many months before the tabulation is complete and the full report obtainable, although the announcement of the total count of the population should be made soon after June 1st. Everybody should be prepared to answer all questions asked, to the best of their knowledge. The list of questions is something fearful at first glance and they cover a great range of subjects from the family tree bearing remote ancestors down to the output of hen fruit for the last year. The district census marshal with headquarters in Los Angeles, is Bert L. Farmer. Census enumerator for Glendale city, Charles E. Parker. The penalty for refusing to answer the questions is sufficiently serious, as Uncle Sam backs up his enumerators with his strong arm.

Secretary Hall of the Merchants association is compiling a comprehensive book, which is to contain the name of every citizen of Alhambra, San Gabriel, Delgeville, South Pasadena, El Monte, Eagle Rock, Tropico, Glendale, Hollywood, Burbank, San Fernando, La Habra, Whittier, Fullerton, Los Nietos and Santa Fe Springs, and possibly several other Los Angeles county communities where his "Hall's Agency" is at work.

Every citizen is to be given a rating, beginning with April 1 and the dealers all over the country will know, to a certainty just how each individual stands with respect to his debt-paying qualities.

Your Checks are Receipts

"Pay as you go" is an excellent maxim provided you "pay-by-check." It's foolish to carry money on the person, except for the smallest purchases and incidentals, for aside from the care and inconvenience there is always the danger of theft or loss.

But with a check-book of this bank in your pocket the inconvenience and worry is eliminated. You write out a check for the exact amount of each purchase, your check-stub is a record for reference and the check itself will later be returned to you by the bank and may be retained as a receipt.

Some persons may think of the check account as being complicated. Nothing could be more simple, however. We keep books for you and there is a record for your every transaction.

GLENDALE, CAL., APRIL 15, 1910

Absentminded.

Modjeska used to tell a story about her honeymoon that is somewhat amusing. When the Countess and Count of Bozenta were on their wedding trip it happened one morning that she had just got up when the count, who had been out for an hour or two taking a morning walk, came back and called to her excitedly:

"Helen! Helen! Come here."

"What is it?"

"Come here quick. I've brought you some lovely fruit, the first of the market."

"All right; I'm dressing. I'll come as soon as I have finished getting ready."

She dressed leisurely and entered the sitting room. The count was sitting reading, deeply interested in his book. She looked round. No fruit was was to be seen. She looked all over the place. The count looked up.

"What are you looking for?"

"Where's that fruit?"

The count looked on the table. It was not there.

"Good gracious!" he said. "I'll be hanged if I haven't eaten it!"

The Wicked Multiplication Table.

A minister was hearing his Sunday school repeat the catechism one Sunday preceding confirmation when a boy from the class of small children ventured to ask a question of the minister.

Turning to the clergyman, the boy inquired in an anxious tone, "Why does the multiplication table make people wicked?"

The minister thought at first that the child had taken occasion to propound a conundrum at a most unseemly time and was about to reprove him when the earnestness of the expression in the upturned face assured him that the question was asked in good faith and required a reply.

"Why do you ask such a question, John? I never knew it to do so," he said.

John turned to his catechism and read from it with a mystified air the question, "Did man grow worse as he began to multiply?" and the accompanying answer, "He did."

Two Convincing Reasons.

Lord Peterborough, who lived in the reign of Queen Anne, was very frolicsome, and one day, seeing from his carriage a dancing master with pearl colored stockings lightly stepping over the broad stones and picking his way in extremely dirty weather, he alighted and ran after him with drawn sword in order to drive him into the mud, but into which he of course followed himself. This nobleman was once taken for the Duke of Marlborough and was mobbed in consequence. The duke was then in disgrace with the people, and Lord Peterborough was about to be roughly handled. Turning to them, he said:

"Gentlemen, I can convince you by two reasons that I am not the Duke of Marlborough. In the first place, I have only 5 guineas in my pocket, and, in the second, they are heartily at your service."

Patroness of Music.

The origin of music is lost in antiquity. Among civilized people it is probably to be traced to the ancient Egyptian priests, who employed this art in their religious rites and ceremonies. From the Egyptians the Greeks and the Romans derived their knowledge of music. The ancient Hebrews probably took with them into Palestine some of the songs they had learned in Egypt. The hymns used in the temple formed the basis of the melodies of the early Christian church, and from these hymns was formulated the first authoritative musical system. St. Cecelia is termed the patroness of music.—Exchange.

The Spit Snake.

There is a snake belonging to the small family causidae, inhabiting Africa, that is said to have the power of ejecting its venom to a short distance. This snake is called by the Dutch Boers "spuw slang," or spit snake. When this snake erects its teeth the pressure of the maxillary bone on the gland causes the venom to flow in drops, and it may be quite possible that by discharging air from its mouth the poison may be blown some distance.

The Gypsies.

The origin of the people known as gypsies remains largely a mystery. Egypt, India, Persia and Arabia have in turn been pointed out as their original country, but there is little definite knowledge on the subject. The weight of evidence is in favor of their having originated in India. They first appeared in Europe about 1400 and from the Danube region spread all over the continent, appearing in England about 1520.

Noah's Anchors.

A story of a pair of anchors is told in the book entitled "To Kairwan the Holy."

Kairwan is the Mecca of the west. It is a city so sacred that women are allowed to move about in it but very little. One of the interesting sights is the Mosque of Emir Ben Said Bon Muphtah. This mosque, with its six melon shaped domes, is the tomb of a most amusing old Moslem who died about the middle of the last century. He had great power over the bey and managed affairs according to his own pleasure. This Moslem got possession in Tunis of four large anchors which probably belonged to some old men-of-war abandoned on account of stress of weather. The gentleman with the long name was not content with any such prosaic explanation of their origin. By means of the labor of 500 Arabs he had the anchors dragged from Tunis and deposited in front of his house. The transportation took five months. He then declared them to be the anchors by which Noah fastened the ark to Mount Ararat. The relics are now in the mosque of their former owner and are regarded as holy.

His Rules of Golf.

A lawyer of considerable prominence took up the game of golf. Some of his friends volunteered chapters of advice, while another presented to the beginner a book of rules. After completing his first round the counselor was asked if he had mastered the rules. The perspiring lawyer realized the sarcasm of the remark, but proved equal to the occasion. "The rules? Oh, they are quite simple," he replied. "There are two I know of, and to my mind they are the most important. You must hit the ball with your club, and after you have hit it you must find it, of course, before you hit it again. It will take an honest man several weeks to master these two rules. After driving the ball you must hit it wherever it lies. Good lies are as important in golf as in fishing. Losing a ball costs you two strokes and the price of the ball. Hitting a caddie with the ball is justifiable homicide."—New York Tribune.

Butler's Reply.

There was a time, while Lyman Trumbull was chairman of the senate committee on judiciary, that Benjamin Butler was chairman of the judiciary committee of the house. It was at this period that a delegation from one of the southern states visited Washington with a desire to secure the impeachment and removal of the federal judge of their state. They interviewed Mr. Butler as to the probability of carrying such a measure through that session.

"I don't know," was Mr. Butler's reply; "I am chairman of the judiciary committee of the house. The necessary action can be had here. But Lyman Trumbull is chairman of the senate committee, and Judge Trumbull is troubled with two things—the dyspepsia, which makes him miserable, and conscience, which makes him uncertain."

Ginseng's Growth.

The manner of the ginseng's growth gives it a queer shape and in some cases fabulous value. There is first a main root or trunk. Then on the sides there will be smaller roots, one on a side, and by a curious formation the offshoots resemble arms and legs, so that the full grown ginseng looks for the world like a human figure. The more the fancied likeness to the human form is developed the greater the value, according to some of the Chinese. The root as an herb has wonderful properties, but, too, so much beyond is the value of one that looks human. The others will cure cancers and all sorts of other diseases, but the precious one having the human shape will keep off devils and all bad luck.—Argonaut.

Home Course In Domestic Science

VI.—Cuts of Meat and How to Cook Them.

By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa State College.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

MEAT is one of the chief tissue building foods. It is also one of the foods most commonly found on the average table. No matter how high the price soars, it is demanded at least once a day as the principal dish in the bill of fare of the average American family. Until recent years it was considered almost essential to life and was the last food to be sacrificed if a change in the diet was recommended for reasons of health. At the present time people are gradually finding out that meat is not a necessity in any bill of fare. They are learning there are other foods which contain quite as much of the tissue building properties, and cheese, beans, eggs and nuts are substituted for the meat dish. Still, beef, lamb, pork, fish, poultry and game continue to be favorite foods in many homes, and one or more of the number is prepared for the table every day. Universally used as it is, meat of all kinds is the food most often spoiled in the cooking, or, to make the statement a little more specific, it is the food material in which the scientific principles of cooking should be and are not most carefully observed.

Composition of Meat.

Meat is composed of bundles of muscle fibers bound together by a filmy substance called connective tissue. There are also in all kinds of meat more or less fat, water and mineral matter, besides the bone, sinew, blood and skin. Albumen, a substance similar to the white of egg, is found in the blood and muscle, and this is the principal proteid of meat. The extractive, or the flavor of meat, is also one of its valuable properties. It is the extractives which give some kinds of meat, beef especially, a stimulating value, and they also aid in the digestion of the muscle fibers. The amount of tissue building material, or proteid, averages from 10 to 20 per cent in different kinds of meat, and the fat varies considerably, from 6 to 60 per cent, according to the animal and the cut. Uncooked meat contains a large amount of water, [illegible] more than 50 per cent.

Meat is cooked to make it more palatable, to develop its flavor and to kill any germs which it may contain. Unless very carefully done cooking meat makes it less easy of digestion. Raw beef finely chopped will leave the stomach in from two and one-half to three hours, while meat cooked after the common method will require from two to three hours longer. When meat is properly cooked the muscle fibers will be softened and the connective tissue and albumen will be only slightly hardened. Boiling meat toughens the muscle fibers and hardens the albumen. In this, then, lies the secret of the proper cooking of any kind of meat. It should always be accomplished with a moderate temperature, below boiling point for stews, fricassees, pot roast, etc.

One fact should ever be kept in mind when buying meat and preparing it for the table. This is that it is not necessarily the most expensive cuts of meats which are either the best flavored or most nutritious. It is a mistake, common to both experienced and inexperienced cooks, to suppose that when a really delicious piece of meat is desired it must be cut from the porterhouse or sirloin. To be sure, in many minds, there is no meat quite so appetizing as a porterhouse steak, but even that expensive and naturally toothsome cut can be absolutely spoiled in the cooking. Equally true is it that a piece cut from the shoulder or the flank can be prepared and cooked in such a way that it will be a dish for the gods and will be relished by even the epicure who usually casts his vote in favor of "T" bone and tenderloin steaks.

Different Cuts of Meat.

A practical knowledge of the usual method of cutting beef, also of the length and structure of the muscle fibers, is almost necessary in order to insure getting the best pieces of meat and to determine how they should be cooked. By the best pieces one generally means those pieces having the least bone and the tenderest, juiciest meat. The woman who seldom if ever visits the meat market, who invariably gives her meat orders by telephone, is not as likely to get a choice roast or a particularly good steak as is the woman who, knowing where these cuts are located, goes to the market and makes her own selection. It is not an easy matter to sell poor meat to the woman who knows almost as well as the butcher himself the difference in the amount of bone in various cuts of meat. It is a simple matter to become familiar with the character of the different kinds of meat and their location in the carcass, and it is a subject which every woman should understand.

The highest priced and tenderest pieces of beef are cut from the hind quarter. Custom is so strong in its preference that beef animals are bred with a view to having as much meat and as small bones in the loin as possible. The largest amount of nutriment is obtained from some of the fore quarter pieces. In dividing the side of beef into fore and hind quarters the division is generally made leaving one rib on the hind quarter. The sirloin and rump roast, loin, porterhouse and round steaks, the flank or skirt piece and the shank are in the hind quarter. The rib roasts, chuck, short ribs, clod or forearm, plate piece, including the navel, the neck and shin, are located in the fore quarter. Most of these pieces can be cut into smaller portions, and the quantity of bone which these several parts contain generally determines which is the best to buy. Of course animals must have bone, and the butcher must see to it that some one buys the bone if he expects to make a good profit. But we are always willing to leave the inferior parts—the big bones—to the customer who does not know any better.

In selecting a rib roast always ask for at least the first three ribs from the whole fore quarter. The first five ribs make a satisfactory roast for a large family. Cutting nearer the shoulder, the muscle fibers are coarser and the meat not as suitable for roasting. The rib roast may have the bones left in it and be cooked as a standing roast, or the ribs may be cut out and the meat rolled, with center filled with a bit of suet. The first method probably has a little better flavor; the second or rolled roast is more easily carved.

The first chuck piece generally sells for a few cents less per pound than the ribs and makes a very good roast if it is carefully prepared and cooked rather slowly. The second and remaining chuck pieces are better for pot than oven roasting. The clod piece contains joint and bone of the forearm. It is often cut into three parts. The second or middle piece, containing the smaller amount of bone, is preferable.

The rump piece, with hip joint removed and the cavity filled with suet, makes an excellent roasting piece. It is very lean, the muscles closely knit, and unless the bone is taken out and some extra fat added the meat is likely to be dry.

The tenderloin is a solid piece of lean meat, juicy and of fine grain and flavor. It is located in the loin, just under the backbone, and is thickest in the center of the loin. Because it has no waste and is unusually tender it is sometimes sold in a separate piece and prepared as a fillet of beef or broiled for steak. But such tenderloin is seldom if ever taken from first quality beef, because when it has been removed the value of the remaining steaks is considerably lessened. Therefore the choicest steak is usually the fourth or fifth porterhouse, containing a good portion of the tenderloin. Select a sirloin steak that has been cut as far into the loin as possible. This gives a good sized piece of tenderloin as well as a large middle piece with short muscles.

Methods of Cooking Meat.

Eight methods are generally employed in cooking meats. These are broiling, roasting, stewing, boiling, frying, sauteing, fricasseeing, a combination of sauteing and stewing, and braising, a combination of frying and baking. The various methods represent cooking in moist heat on top of the range and cooking in dry heat in the oven or broiler. The principle underlying all the methods is the same. It is to begin the cooking of the meat at a high temperature in order to sear over the cut muscle ends to keep the juices in the meat and then to cook at a lower temperature that the muscle fibers and connective tissue may be hardened as little as possible.

For a roast of beef choose either the first three ribs, a cut from the sirloin or the rump piece. After preparing the roast for the oven wipe it with a cloth wet with cold water. Do not put the meat in a dish of water to wash it. Put the meat into a dripping pan or, better, a self basting roaster, sprinkle it with a little pepper and dredge lightly with flour if desired. But do not put water in the pan nor sprinkle the meat with salt, because both extract the flavor of the meat, and the salt draws out the juice. The oven should be very hot, about 350 degrees, hot enough to sear the meat on all sides in ten or fifteen minutes. If desired the searing may be done on top of the stove directly over the fire. After the meat is well seared the temperature should be lowered and the meat allowed to cook more slowly until it is done, about fifteen minutes for each pound. If a dripping pan is used the meat will require basting several times during the first hour. For this melt some butter or some good, fresh "drippings" in hot water, remove the pan from the oven and baste thoroughly. Do not pour water over the meat nor baste with clear fat. After two or three times there will be enough fat in the pan for subsequent bastings. Salt may be added during the last half hour of roasting or after the meat has been well seared. To be quite satisfactory a roast should weigh at least five pounds. Less than that the piece will be so small that by the time it has been seared on all sides there will be very little center portion.

RESOLUTION OF INTENITON NO. 336.

A RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE FRANKLIN COURT FROM THE SOUTH LINE OF FOURTH STREET TO THE NORTH LINE OF FIFTH STREET.

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require, and it is the intention of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, State of California, to order the following street work to be done in said City, to-wit:

First: That all that portion of Franklin Court from the South line of Fourth Street to the North line of Fifth Street, including all intersections of streets (excepting such portions of said street and intersections as are required by law to be kept in order or repair by any person or company having railroad tracks thereon), be graded, oiled and tamped in accordance with the plan and profile on file in the office of the City Engineer, and specifications for the construction of graded, tamped and oiled streets on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale, said specifications being numbered 9, excepting that from the South line of Fourth Street to the Easterly prolongation across said Franklin Court of the South line of Lot 8, Block 20, of the Town of Glendale as per map recorded in Book 21, pages 89-90 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, in addition to the regular treatment under specifications Number 9, there shall be incorporated into the roadway a layer of gravel 2½ inches thick, of which the maximum pieces will pass through a 2½-inch ring and the minimum pieces will not pass through a ½-inch ring, in the following manner: When the roadway is tamped to within 2½ inches of the surface, the 2½ inches of gravel of the sizes as above specified shall then be evenly spread over the entire surface and tamped into said roadway, and then completed as provided for in Specifications Number 9.

Second: That a cement curb be constructed along the Westerly side of the roadway of said Franklin Court from the South line of Fourth Street to the North line of Fifth Street, including returns at all street intersections (excepting along such portions of the line of said roadway upon which a cement curb has already been constructed to the official line and grade) in accordance with the specifications for the construction of cement curbs on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale, said specifications being numbered 2, except that on the West side of said roadway from the South line of the Fourth Street to the Easterly prolongation across said Franklin Court of the South line of Lot 12 of aforesaid Town of Glendale, the curb shall be placed six feet from the property line instead of the distance as specified in said specifications number 2.

SECTION 2. That the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale hereby finds upon estimates directed to be furnished and furnished by the City Engineer that the total cost of said improvement will be greater than fifty cents per front foot along each line of said street, including the cost of intersections, and it is hereby determined, in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, as amended by an Act of the Legislature amending said last named Act, which amending Act became a law March 2, 1889, that bonds shall be issued to represent the cost of said improvement. Said bonds shall be serial, extending over a period of ten years from their date, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable, by coupon, on the second day of January every year after their date, until the whole are paid, and said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum on all sums unpaid, payable semi-annually, by coupon, on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, until the whole of said principal and interest are paid.

SECTION 3. THE GLENDALE NEWS, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in the said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention, and notice of the passage thereof, shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law.

SECTION 4. The Superintendent of Streets of said City is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by one insertion in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

SECTION 5. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Resolution and shall cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law in said newspaper, and shall post the same conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the Board of Trustees.

Adopted and approved this 6th day of April, 1910.

(SEAL) R. A. BLACKBURN,
Pro tem President of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale.

Attest:

During the early days of the career of William Allen White, when he was charged with the conduct of a country paper in Iowa, he one day received a call from an indignant contributor, who bitterly complained that matter of his, long before submitted, had not been published.

"Softly, my friend," said White in his most soothing tone. "Really I must offer my best thanks to you for those features. They have served me well. From time to time when I get to thinking that this sheet is a pretty poor one to inflict upon a long suffering public I look up your stuff and read it carefully, a process which enables me to perceive how much worse my paper might be, whereupon I become real cheerful. Please don't take them from me."—Cleveland Leader.

A Multiplication Trick.

Here is a little trick in multiplication that may amuse you. Ask a friend to write down the numbers 12345679, omitting the number 8. Then tell him to select any one figure from the list, multiply it by 9 and with the answer to this sum multiply the whole list—thus, assuming that he selects either the figure 4 or 6:

Select 4×9=36.	Select 6×9=54.
12345679	12345679
36	54
74074074	49382716
37037037	61728395
444444444	666666666

You see, the answer of the sum is composed of figures similar to the one selected.

Men In Petticoats.

It will probably be a matter of surprise to the general reader to learn that the petticoat was first worn exclusively by men. In the reign of King Henry VII. the dress of the English was so fantastic and absurd that it was difficult to distinguish one sex from the other. In the inventory of Henry V. appears a "petticoat of red damask, with open sleeves." There is no mention of a woman's petticoat before the Tudor period.

Cruel Blow.

"Are you aware of the fact," remarked Miss Cutting, "that I am a mind reader?"

"Nevah suspected it, weally," answered young Softleigh. "Would you—aw—object to weading my mind, doncher know?"

"Certainly not," she replied. "Bring it with you the next time you call."

Paced Too Rapidly.

"Waiter, ask the orchestra to play something different."

"Any particular selection, sir?"

"Something slower. I can't chew my food properly in waltz time."—Kansas City Journal.

Another of those fine concerts, best talent and original numbers, K. of P. Hall, March 21st.

We call attention to the advertisement of the FIDELITY FLOUR appearing on our last page. A personal knowledge of the firm making the claims for this flour which they do, leads us to believe that they can be relied upon to "make good."

BORN—Mildred Randolph. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Randolph are the happy recipients of congratulations upon the birth of their first child, a daughter, weighing 9½ pounds, who arrived on March 18, at handsome new house on Glendale ave.

Mrs. J. Fletcher Tatlow has been called east by a telegram announcing the sudden death of her sister, Mrs. Wm. H. Warner, of Burlington, N. J., and owing to the critical condition of her aged father will probably remain in the East for several months. She was accompanied by her three children.

Miss Mildred Randolph, the three weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mr. T. W. Blackburn, brother of Dr. R. A. Blackburn, arrived in Glendale Sunday last, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn at Second and Adams. Mr. Blackburn is a prominent lawyer of Omama, Neb., and prominently mentioned as candidate for congress from his home district. He has previously spent considerable time in Glendale and notes its satisfactory development.

The Kirmess was one of the most pretentious and successful affairs that have ever been given in Glendale, a hundred people taking part, and the Guild will clear a neat sum. Such cheerful and hearty support was given by all that a complimentary dancing party will be given to the Kirmess workers Friday evening, April 22, in Odd Fellows hall, as a slight token of appreciation. The invitations are limited to those who took active part and may be secured any afternoon at Mrs. Scott W. Johnson's office, 405 Glendale avenue.

On Thursday evening of last week the newly organized lodge Independent Order of Foresters, met in Odd Fellows hall and initiated a class of ten candidates. Another batch will be taken in on the last Thursday evening of April, the lodge meeting in Odd Fellows hall regularly on the second and last Thursdays of the month. A LITTLE DOING AT TROPICO.

It seemed as though the people in Los Angeles were just waiting for the showers to pass by so that they could flock to this place and plant some money in realty here. After the showers had passed and the sun was again shining the realty men here were kept more than busy, and the inquiries resulted in several sales.

Davenport & Black report the sale of one lot in the Oak Knoll tract on Brand boulevard to Ellen J. Shepherd, the price being $1100. Two lots on Parke avenue in the Wolfe tract to Aristide J. WEST GLENDALE

Mr. J. W. Everett and wife spent Saturday and Sunday in Ontario.

Wm. Yarnell returned from Mexico City Tuesday evening after one and one-half years' absence, bringing with him many curios. His chief occupation while away was missionary work.

The gas question is arousing quite an interest in the citizens of Glendale, more especially since the new ditch-digging apparatus is doing such rapid work and so close to us. It is hoped by all that it will only be a short time until there will be a plentiful supply of the fuel for everybody.

That the management of the Glendale Steam Laundry is meeting with splendid success is shown by the fact that they are obliged to run until 10 and 11 o'clock at night a good part of the time, in order to fill all their orders, and have their goods delivered on time. All this goes to show that Glendale is certainly growing.

Brother Warren Story of West Fourth street in a recent confab with the Santa Fe, tried to swallow everything in sight, but couldn't down any more than a good-sized frog, which has been in his throat ever since. Consequently, he has cancelled any further speeches until his melodious voice gets back its natural tone. It's mighty hard, Brother Story, but grin and bear it—it's the makin' of the—orator."

Rev. Morrison of the Mission church on Fifth and Pacific streets, will give a series of lectures on "Remeniscences of the War." The first lecture will occur on Friday evening, 15th, the remainder to follow later on. Rev. Morrison is a highly educated gentleman and a very interesting speaker. It is to be hoped that every one who can will avail himself of hearing him speak on so interesting a subject. No admission, but a silver offering will be taken.

While on track duty one day a sneak thief entered the dressing room and extracted from his pockets some ready cash that he would rather have had himself. He thought to himself, "Well, here's where I can make use of my ability as a sprinter and perhaps by starting immediately I can make Los Angeles by the time school opens," but Dicky has plenty of friends, so he came home by rail—in a sleeper, too.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clay at their new home on Ivy street on Saturday evening. Music and games furnished entertainment for the evening, and later on a dainty luncheon was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gieske, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McMahon, Mr. McMahon, Mr. Breeden, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Earnest Odell, Miss Alpha Cochran, Miss Edna Cochran, Miss Winifred Whitehead, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Mary Clay, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clay of Glendale.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The new drinking fountains are in place and very much appreciated by both teachers and scholars.

The census marshal will soon be around, so gather your wits together and try and remember your children's names, ages, sex, color, etc, for there certainly is a lot of red tape to go through.

New scholars every week.

They left Paris a day or two before the flood was at its worst but saw plenty of it in journeying through France towards Italy. Mrs. Merrill writes in a most entertaining manner of a visit to the city of Pompeii, excavated after its burial of sixteen centuries under the lava of Vesuvius.

NOTICE.

In order to set the public aright, without explaining over the telephone, I wish to again make the matter clear that I have purchased A. P. offutt's entire interest in the livery, boarding and express business known as Central Stables, corner of Fourth and Mary streets, and that Mr. Offutt has nothing whatever to do with my business, either directly or indirectly.

Save Children from Failure.

It is one of the most sorrowful sights of civilized life, to see a child fail in school at the end of the year. It is a tragedy for him to fail. It damns his future. He loses his grip. He falls out of the procession. His courage and self-confidence are shaken. He forms a habit of failing and expects to fail and does fail through all the years of the future. It is a blighting misfortune, from any viewpoint a cruel and tragic affair.

And what does the child do next year in school, after failing? Improve in his studies and become the best one in his class? Not at all. Usually he fails because his mind is not so alert and prompt and quick as the others; and the second year he takes the same rank with the new pupils as with the old. The third year it is the same thing again. He partly knows the subject-matter, but the zest is gone, the spark of interest has departed, his mates have left him behind, he is only a failure. What a life without ambition? What kind of a citizen is a man or a woman with a chronic habit of failure?

But all have seen wise old teachers at work who wouldn't let their pupils fall. They scented the battle from afar—and avoided it! They paid special attention to the "slowboys," giving them things to do that were within their reach and keeping up their courage and stimulating their self-confidence in many cunning ways. They managed things, they prearranged results, they saw to it beforehand that children did not get into the graduating class until they had gotten out of their studies all they were capable of getting; and then they sent those children ahead, even if their examination papers were not technically up to the mark.

No general rule can be laid down in a matter of this kind, where there are ten thousand cases, no two alike. But any sincere teacher does well to hunt for ways to forestall and prevent her children from coming to the point of failure. This is good service to the future of the state.
